Designing the Interior of a Log Cabin: the Challenge of Planning Public Space

The local Dawson Renewable Resource Council (RRC) received funds from the Federal Government's Infrastructure Program to build a log cabin 30kms from Dawson that is open for use by the general public. The RRC put an announcement in the local paper that the cabin was completed but the federal funding did not include any funds for completing the interior and if you want to use the cabin you must bring your own items. The announcement states that the cabin will be available for the first time on March 1st. On that day, 6 people head out to the cabin and all arrive there about the same time with items they want in the cabin and each has a story behind their need for the item in the cabin. Each person is intent on getting their item into the cabin.

With this reality, the group must create a functioning log cabin.
